Superstition.

BY W. H. R. FURBER.

It is a strange thing that in this age of progress and reading and thought that superstition has not given way to something real and something good. We ought to make light of the superstitions of the people in the days of witchery in our New England, and yet we are sometimes almost equally superstitious. I ask a class how many are superstitious? Not a hand up. How many would be afraid to go through a grave yard by night? All hands up. Why, because they have been educated with these ideas from infancy. Superstition! Some people who are intelligent in many ways, must plant their grain and vegetables in the moon. Why, because they have been taught that they grow better. Where is the reason? Nowhere, but among the decaying relics of semi-civilization and witchery. Teachers, who have largely in your hands the molding of ideas that will permeate the mind of future farmers and business men as well. Oh! can't you do something toward teaching our boys that the ground is the place to plant and the ground is the place to build a fence? And that the business of the moon is to give light and far more danger is in moving among the haunts and slugs of the living than in the haunts of the dead. Since the days of Thomas Catox and his famous printing press, many of the ancient superstitions have been buried into the cortex of ruin. But to some of them people cling as ardently as the vain maiden of the east looked before the faded goddess of beauty with a hope that her personal charms might be increased. Yes, the girls have their fortunes told and believe in it with all the ardor of the old times. Many people think that luck is a mysterious something, coming from an unknown source, and smiles or frowns on the fortunes and destinies of men. There are good honest women who won't bet because they have no luck. But will carry their eggs away to some neighbor on whose hand that mysterious luck has looted. I hope my boys and girls who read the Baxterian News will learn that they must make their own luck. And to the boy or girl who works earnestly there is more hope for you than the luckiest boy in the world. A great man said "an ounce of luck is worth a pound of skill" and it is true. There is no such thing as luck and good luck. A broken looking glass does not mean seven years bad luck; it means a broken looking glass. A home shoe with the toe up is just as much an emblem of good luck as one with the toe down.

And to start anywhere and turn back means just much time lost and no good result. My fellow teachers may I implore you in the age of steam and electricity and printing presses with the farmers still so much in the dark as to the boys taking horse shoes to the wall, girls sleeping with wedding cake under their pillow and even school teachers hunting four leaved clover, may I implore you I say, to smile and make one step toward dousing this fable monster.

"Does your mother know you're out," said a boy to his little brother. "Yes, she does, was the answer, 'for one bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has knocked my cold into a cocked hat, you bet!'"

A few applications of Salivation Oil will instantly relieve stiffness in the neck or joints. 25 cents.

The Oldest Man. The death of Wm. H. Harley, of Booneville, Mo., at the age of ninety-seven years and six months, and who had been a Mason seventy-five years, is announced.

The venerable father Wm. H. Gayle, living in Newport, will celebrate the ninety-second anniversary of his birth on the third day of January 1892. He has lived in this country since he was a boy.

The venerable gentleman is a member of the Robert Burns Lodge No. 161, of Newport, a Knight Templar and has taken the 32d degree in Scottish Rite Masonry. His health is excellent, and he doesn't get on a street car to stop if he want to get on or get off if he thinks the driver is in a hurry; and he bids fair to round out a century of an honored and remarkable career.—Ky. Journal.

14 MONTHS "Mrs. Kelly requests the NEWS to publish her notice in regard to her son, who has been sick for some time, and who has been attended by two physicians, and they did everything for him they could and he didn't improve. For fourteen months and five days he was in bed and now he doesn't move. One of our friends recommended you, S. R., and after he had taken two or three bottles he began to improve. He continued until he had taken eleven bottles, and today he is as well as ever. The boy is fourteen years old, and Mrs. Kelly lives next door to me and I am well acquainted with the facts of the case." C. W. Hockingford, Postmaster, East London, Maine. Swift's Specific has a wonderful effect on children and young people. It should be given to every child who has any blood trouble or blood poisoning, and it will cure it. See our ads how they look up. And notice the very artistic style in which they are given up. We are very proud of our advertisements and we try to give them the very best in our office.

Mayor Pierce has called a meeting of the Representative of the cities of the fifth class to meet in this city Dec. 15, to discuss and adopt such form of charter as will conform to the new Constitution. There are about forty cities in the state that belong to this class.

The farmers' meeting over at Tobinport last week was pronounced a splendid success by all who attended from this side. They were royally and handsomely entertained. Then W. E. Minor was especially loud in his praise of the meeting and of a paper read by our correspondent.

The smallest editor, we mean in stature of course, in the State of Indiana, called on us Saturday. His name is Mr. Schuetz and he runs the Telephone at Cannelton a new paper, and an excellent one too, just started there. He and Mr. Henning came over from the Farmers' Institute at Tobinport.

A called meeting of the city council was held Saturday night to consider a proposition made by Mr. Henning, of Cannelton, to build water works. Mr. Henning represents a Philadelphia company, who propose to put in a system of water works at a cost of $40,000, if the city will guarantee said company $2,250 per year for 25 years. It was a little higher thing than the council felt like tackling and the matter was postponed indefinitely.

We will publish next week an interesting account of the Maxwell-Lowe tragedy, which occurred at Haverhill way back in the fifties. It is written by our old friend, Wm. Sterrett, who is now the Washington correspondent of the Galveston Texas News. Mr. Sterrett is considered one of the best of the many Washington correspondents, and the story is told in his usual bright and interesting way, and will be especially interesting on account of its local features.

A few samples of tobacco were shown at Hardinsburg Monday. They were of splendid color but with scarcely any body, being light and chaffy. There were no sides and no bids. The crop is estimated at one-fourth of the usual yield. Mr. B. F. Beard says, but for the shortness of the tobacco crop, this would have been one of the most prosperous years for the farmer he had known in many years. The farmers are all right any way will be, but nothing like what they would have been with a full crop.

Always use the medicine that will do the most good, and for kidney trouble, the best is the best. Messrs. Gray & Hladow, Barlow, O., says: "We have handled medicines of different kinds for years and have never handled anything that equals Lightning Kidney & Liver Remedy. One of our customers has been suffering for years with kidney trouble, and has used a great deal of kidney and liver cure, but did not receive much, if any benefit. He finally tried Lightning Kidney & Liver Remedy, and will use nothing else. He says he would rather pay the price for it than to take the other for nothing." For sale by all dealers.

Hardinsburg C. L. S. O.

After several discouraging efforts, this society met for earnest work at Mr. Morris Kaskridge's, Nov. 8th, 1891. Having no definite program for the occasion, we read from the required reading in the "Christianity." "Domestic and social life of the colonist." Then the president gave the following duties as our next weeks program: Quotations on America as responses to the roll call. Mr. Balbague's "character sketch on Queen Isabella"; paper on the religious and traditions of the 15th century by John H. Davis. John H. Davis, "the golden rule window pane first used." Miss Katie Kaskridge "when was glass first manufactured?" Miss Florence Smith "was corn of American origin." Adjourned to meet at Mr. V. G. Balbague's November 16th.

Miss Pats Parr is visiting in Cloverport this week the guest of Mrs. Jordan.

Miss Alma Mitchell after a protracted visit with her sister, Mrs. Lena Vessell, Owensboro, has recently returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Beavin visited her sister, Mrs. Canary recently, the latter is soon to leave for New Albany, her future home.

Miss Mattie Beavin (nee Hicks) has just opened a full and complete stock of millinery goods. Give her a call before purchasing elsewhere.

Messrs. Laife Parr and Ruth Cunningham accompanied by Mr. Tom. Brodie, of Cheatham, were the guests of Miss Julie Cunningham last week.

We have been having nice, pleasant, Autumn days and the lovely nights are to be admired as they slowly and pleasantly lengthen out for sweet repose.

The fall season has been unusually favorable for gathering crops, and all crops will show high as a consequence. The corn crop is the largest in ten years.

Miss Laura Elder is soon to be the new deputy at our postoffice. Miss Laura is a nice, refined and cultured young lady and we congratulate and cordially welcome her as the new assistant.

We are glad to state that Rev. S. P. Styles will be with us another year. He has won the esteem and respect of this people, and they are to be congratulated for having secured the services of such a worthy, able minister. He has done much to rekindle this community from the threshold of sin, and it is hoped that his power for good among us may increase as his labors fold.

Commendable.

All claims and contentions with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure-all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.

LAND FOR SALE.
